About Nowra

Set inland on the Shoalhaven River between Shoalhaven Heads, Berry and Ulladulla, the town of Nowra is one of the largest on the NSW South Coast and is the heart of the Shoalhaven. The surrounding area is known for farming, with a thriving dairy industry. Located 125km south of Sydney, Nowra has an estimated population of 36,000. The naval air station HMAS Albatross is located about 10km south-west of Nowra. Its name stems from the aboriginal word 'nou-woo-ro' for black cockatoo.
